

The Corvian Way

The Corvian Way encompasses the core principles of Corvian Community School. These principles guide the actions of our teachers, staff, and Board of Directors, and provide shared expectations for parents, students, and other members of the Corvian family. The Corvian Way means:

- Celebrating each other. We value and believe our community is enriched by embracing our diversity. We celebrate our strengths and respect our differences.
- Owning our health and wellness. We value, cultivate, and model healthy lifestyle habits, including exercise, nutrition, and taking care of our minds as well as our bodies.
- Respecting each other. We value and appreciate one another, and demonstrate empathy, compassion, and respect through our words and actions. We treat others the way we want to be treated. We always assume the best of each other.
- Volunteering our time and talents. We value collaboration between all members of the Corvian family. We encourage active engagement through open and honest communication, volunteering, and promoting the Corvian Way at home and in the community.
- Inspiring stewardship and citizenship. We value service learning and global awareness. We appreciate and protect our environment and engage in our communities.
- Aspiring to live a life of integrity. We value reputation and character. Our actions are consistent with our beliefs and words. We are honest, follow through on our commitments, and admit and learn from our mistakes.
- Nurturing self-motivation. We value curiosity and self-driven academic inquiry. We are committed to making the classroom and the home safe and respectful environments for students to be independent thinkers.
