

Join us in celebrating November - Eye Donation Month

My vision problems started in my 20's and before I turned 30, I was diagnosed with glaucoma and scheduled to have an urgent surgery due to the severity. I had the surgery, but my vision did not strongly improve. I had to quit a job I loved at a local hospital and as the years passed, I drifted into a depression. I was able to connect with a organization that helps blinded individuals and I learned ways to become more self sufficient.

My family encouraged me to continue to seek medical help, and after seeing a new specialist in 2017, he determined that a cornea transplant would heal me. I'm thankful for my faith throughout this journey. I'm also thankful for my family, my surgeon and the eye bank staff. I will forever be thankful to the person that donated their cornea. This gift of sight has been the most amazing gift I have received.
