Workshop Sponsorship Opportunities

We are delighted to provide sponsorship opportunities so that our community can help keep workshop registration fees low and accessible to a wide audience, support travel scholarships for students and underrepresented professionals to attend, and facilitate knowledge exchange between managers, researchers, and their stakeholders during the workshop. Our March 2020 workshop in Albuquerque, New Mexico, sold out at 150 participants, and we anticipate a diverse audience of 250+ attendees to gather in Fort Collins including land and fire managers from local, state, and federal agencies, tribal nations, researchers, funding partners, students, non-governmental organizations, policy makers, forest operations companies, and other partners interested in applying science and tools for all-lands collaborative forest landscape restoration. Sponsorship contributions can be made by registering here as a Sponsor attendee type.
